

A Asus EsusE Dsus D A

She brings the sun, that shines upon the breeze Billowing sheets, refreshing scents that do please

She wears a hat from a southern island sea
To shade her eyes, when she comes, to visit me

And the magic lines that crack across my face Disappear with a baby's warm embrace

Her mother's handy needle and delicate thread do sew Together the years, where once we sat, so long ago

Forgotten hopes and lost dreams come rushing back like a raging storm at sea

D F#m D A

With her precious smile, my little Gracie Rose

A Asus EsusE Dsus D A

Crowds of well-informed ladies and two hunched back greying men stand tall on tip toes, to get a peek as they attend to see that she is their last hope to change the world as I trumpet joy and pride about Daddy's little girl she patiently watches them jump to every single demand because she is the child that need not cry with love so close at hand

Chorus

A Asus EsusE Dsus D A

A miraculous celebration, is happening for her live Just as the sullen sun begins to set on mine while she safely naps in Mother's loving arms I rest assured knowing, she is here to carry on where I left off in time is now so long forgotten until I see you smile, my little Gracie Rose
